Who cares about damn gold? I understand folks are all looking at the job aspect of the whole idea, but c'mon, look, get some educated heads together & come up with a different avenue to supply jobs to the Alaskan people. There are disasters throughout not only America but the world where the greed of money cost a permanent change of life for an entire generation & even up to four generations as a result of tampering with wildlife & the ability to rely on your surroundings to give you the privilege of doing things in a traditional respect. I know people personally who cannot pack fresh water or the fish are gone. Having no fresh water for wildlife to drink, wildlife had to completely move. Sad. I don't support this greedy investment.
